

Redevelopment Program Approaches $2,375,000

"All phases of the Brick-by-Brick Campus Redevelopment program are now underway," states the Hon. Charles A. Halleck, campaign chairman. "Since our kickoff last September, the program has included all members of the Saint Joseph's College family—trustees, alumni, faculty, staff, students, parents and friends. Their belief in Saint Joseph's and its traditions has made my job gratifying."

A program of solicitation for capital support from corporations and foundations has been underway since early January. "It's a long, precise, demanding project," says Jerry Gladu, Vice-President for Development, "but the rewards are well worth it. Since the fire we have received more than $300,000 in corporate and foundation support. We believe now that we have specific projects to present, we can raise that figure considerably in the next few months."

"It took us awhile to get our programs of alumni support into high gear, but since the first of the year we have really skyrocketed," comments Jim Madden '64 alumni campaign chairman. "The alumni portion of the campaign has surpassed $130,000. This is an increase of almost $100,000 since December. A breakdown of the 12 alumni areas shows a tremendous willingness by alumni to support their alma mater," he continues.

As of mid-March, area contributions and their chairmen are:
Lima, Ohio $ 4,595

Gifts from non-organized areas amount to $22,660.

In addition to the numerous kickoffs remaining in newly organized areas (Warren, Ohio, Mar. 28; Cincinnati, Apr. 26 and Muncie, Ind., Apr. 29) the alumni will hold a nationwide phone-a-thon Mar. 25, 26, 27 and 28 under the direction of B. Todd Adams '54. "We hope to contact as many alumni as possible who do not live in areas which will be organized into campaign groups," states Adams. "We will be using not only Chicago area alumni to make the calls, but many college students have also volunteered. We think this is an excellent idea to involve the students since they are at the center of the campus redevelopment program."

PUMAS ARE CHAMPS—The Saint Joseph's basketball Pumas captured the NCAA Great Lakes Regional tournament by defeating Coe College 91-76, University of Wisconsin-Green Bay 70-54 and Wittenberg University 75-60. The victories advanced the Pumas into the NCAA Division II quarter-finals. Puma stars Jimmy Thordsen (jr.-Santurce, P.R.), Dave Huneryager (sr.-Hammond, Ind.) and Kyle Wiggs (soph.-Ripon Wis.) were named to the tournament all-star team. Thordsen was selected the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

5th Scholarship Dinner April 19

"It is hard to believe that in June we will graduate the first students who benefitted from the original Scholarship Dinner in 1970," says Albert Fellingner, '52, co-chairman of the Fifth Annual Scholarship Dinner.

"The traditional $100-per-plate dinner will be held at the Drake Hotel in Chicago, Friday evening, Apr. 19," says Fellingner. This dinner is a unique opportunity for friends and benefactors of Saint Joseph's to extend their support to the college, and in so doing to have a good time. It is in every sense a 'gala affair,' and anyone who has ever attended knows what a marvelous thing it is."

Since the spring of 1970, the trustees have sponsored scholarship dinners to raise funds for needy students. This dinner has provided $140,000 in scholarship funds, aiding 185 Saint Joseph's students.

"The trustees have a tradition of helping students, and Saint Joseph's is thankful for the initiative they have shown in this affair, and is appreciative to all who have contributed to the scholarship program," reports Fr. Charles Banet, college President.

Friends of the college wishing additional information concerning the Fifth Annual Scholarship Dinner are asked to contact Jerry Gladu, Office of Development, Saint Joseph's College, Rensselaer, Indiana, (47978) or call area code 219-866-8463, collect.

Admissions Applications 12% Higher Than 1973

Fighting a national trend of lower college enrollments, the Saint Joseph's College Office of Admissions' reports show 674 applications already for next year, as opposed to only 526 a year ago. Actual approved applications reflect the same upward trend with 506 at present, compared to only 353 last year.

"One major reason for this increase," explains Bill Stafford, Director of Admissions, "is a more personalized approach to applicants. Previously, admissions personnel met and dealt with prospective students through high school counseling staffs. Now we deal directly with students on an individual basis. A big help to us in this approach are the alumni, who contact the prospective students in their area, answering any questions and referring further information about the student to us. Faculty departments and the coaching staffs are also very helpful in contacting students, and providing them with pertinent information about majors and corresponding programs."

Added dimensions of the admissions program include organized trips of prospective students to the campus, attractive information brochures which help to introduce the student to Saint Joseph's, and summer workshops.

The admissions program offers the prospective student a good look at Saint Joseph's, and the results speak for themselves.

Where to Begin? Fr. Paul Wellman, Vice-President for Business Affairs, and Tom Moore, campus resident engineer, study plans for the remodeling of Gaspar Hall. Gaspar served as a student residence hall before the February '73 fire and now is utilized as the faculty office building. Beginning this spring, Phase I plans are to renovate and remodel Gaspar to become the new campus Administration Building.

A slight smile! William Stafford, left, Saint Joseph's Director of Admissions, confers with James Foote, assistant admissions director, about the increase of applicants the college has received for the fall of '74.

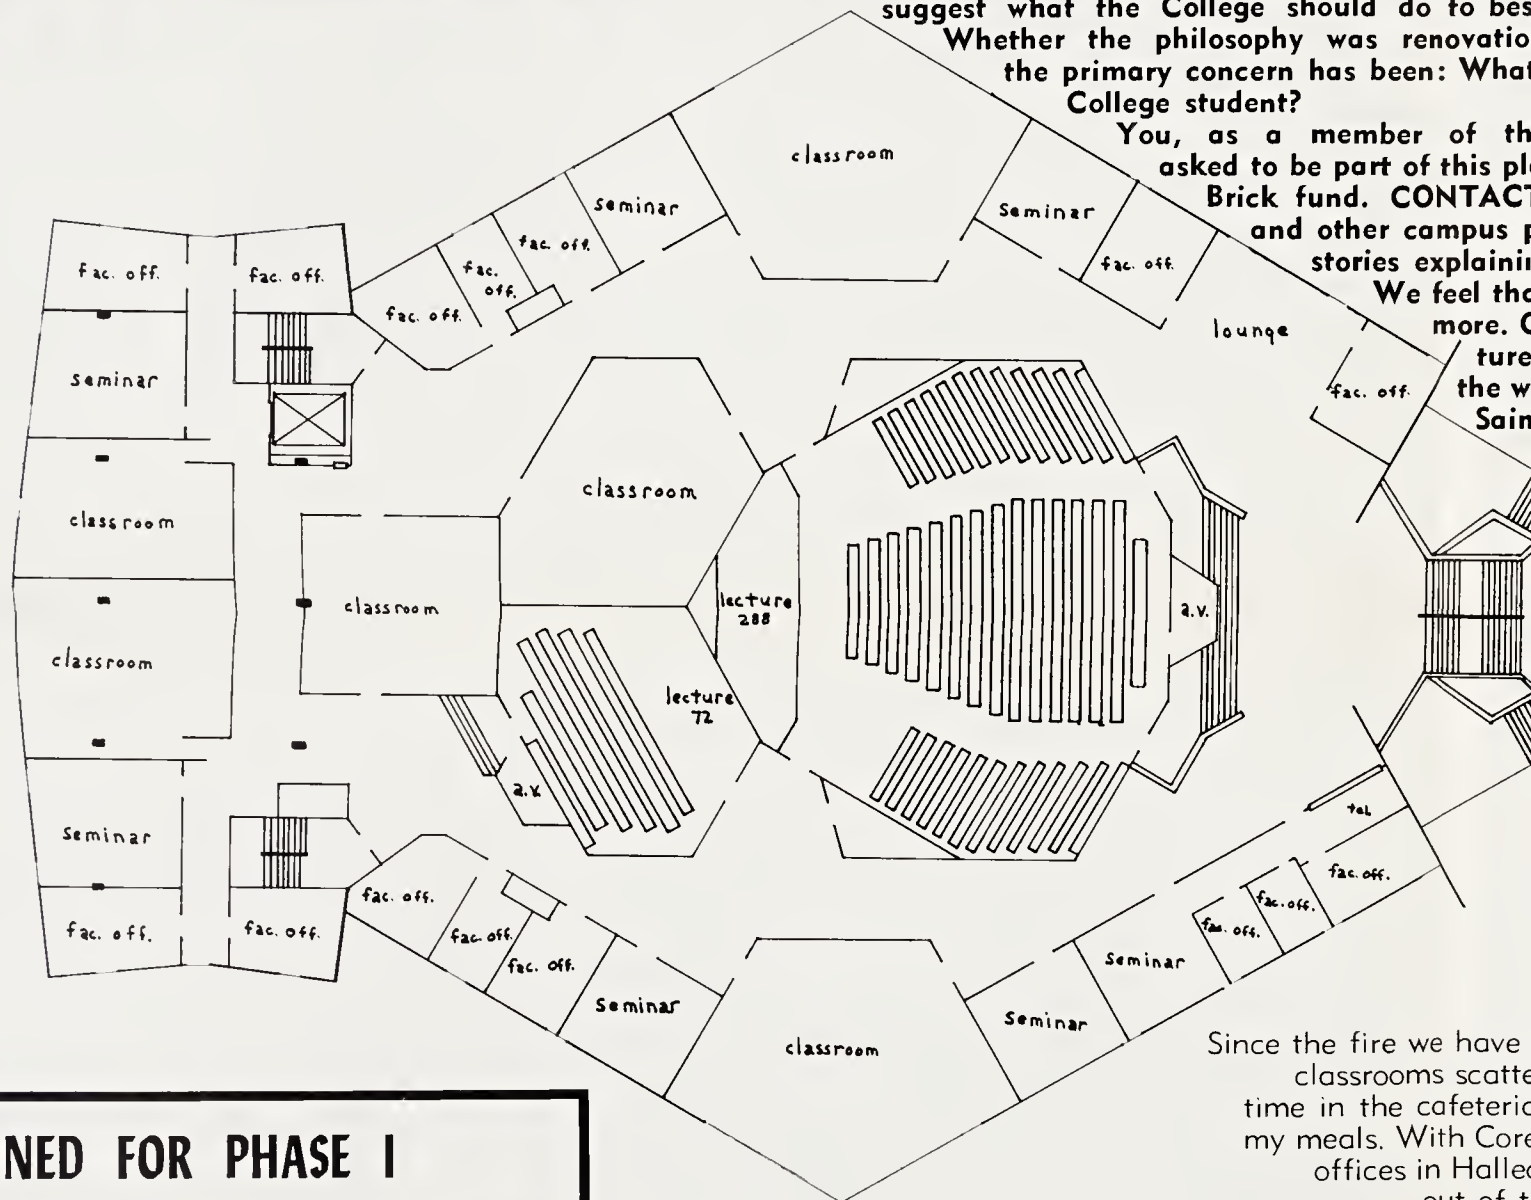

Campus Redevelopment

PHASE ONE &

The old tintype shows Saint Joseph's College. Actually, the 1908 photo of Saint Joseph's students no longer sport the middle or struggle with high-button shoes. The Building is gone and the coeds are here. The changes everything is nowhere more true than here. They have changed since 1908, but even more important, they were in 1973.

Saint Joseph's is on the threshold of another era. The Redevelopment Plan, which will allow the College to renew its campus and strengthen its place in the community. Since the fire, all members of the college community suggest what the College should do to best serve the student. Whether the philosophy was renovation or reconstruction, the primary concern has been: What is the best for the College student?

The Phase I drawing (right) of the ballroom of Halleck Center exemplifies the type of changes which will be implemented to replace some of the academic space lost in the Administration Building fire. The remodeling will create 6 classrooms, 7 seminar rooms and 14 faculty offices. In addition, the present ballroom space will become 2 Core curriculum lecture halls. Included in the total Halleck Center remodeling will be the second and third floors of the tower area which will provide an additional 4 classrooms, 2 seminar rooms and 10 faculty offices.

Since the fire we have had classrooms scattered all over the campus. It is time to have a central place for my meals. With Core curriculum offices in Halleck, it is out of the way.

WHAT IS PLANNED FOR PHASE I

HALLECK CENTER — See Above

SCIENCE HALL—The library will be expanded into the entire west wing first floor, adding an additional 10,000 square feet. Remodeling will include adding an elevator, psychology lab, sprinkler system, enclosing stairwells, complete rewiring and improved lighting, and upgraded lavatory facilities.

GASPAR HALL—Gaspar will become the administration building. Complete renovation will include a new roof, complete gutting of the interior floors, addition of an elevator and expansion of the basement area to include a vault for business record storage. The vault which will be constructed in the Gaspar basement will be the same one which was placed in the previous administration building in 1965 and survived the fire, saving all records stored in it. When completed the Gaspar Administration Building will house offices of the president, development, admissions, academic dean, registrar and the campus bank and business office.

STUDENT RESIDENCES—Aquinas, Bennett, Drexel, Gallagher, Merlini, Noll, Halas & Seifert—Phase I will include a complete upgrading of dormitory facilities including painting, lighting, carpeting, acoustical treatment and ventilation wherever necessary.

XAVIER—The former seminary residence which now serves as the administration building will be remodeled into the music arts facility.

RALEIGH—This building will be converted into a women's physical education facility.

DWENGER—The health facility will be remodeled to accommodate additional administrative and faculty offices.

ME & THE SAINT JOSEPH'S STUDENT

Saint Joseph's College at the turn of the century. Saint Joseph's students exemplifies how things no longer sport knickers, part their hair down and high-button shoes. And, yes, the Administration is here. The old saw about how time is more true than at Saint Joseph's. Things are even more importantly, things are not what threshold of another change — the Campus will allow the College the rare opportunity to open its place in private higher education. The college community have been asked to consider what to do to best serve its educational mission. Was renovation, remodeling or rebuilding, has been: What is best for the Saint Joseph's member of the college family have been part of this plan contributing to the Brick-by-brick. CONTACT, PARENTS, INFO, UPDATE other campus publications have printed many stories explaining the redevelopment program.

We feel that perhaps there should be a bit more. On this two-page spread are pictures of the way things are, perhaps the way they were when you attended Saint Joseph's. Accompanying these photos, to more fully explain Phase I, are comments from those people who will be most directly affected — our students.

of fire we have had to adjust to many different kinds of classrooms scattered all over the campus. I've spent more time in the cafeteria meeting my classes than I have eating meals. With Core lecture facilities, classrooms and faculty offices in Halleck Center, students will get a lot more use out of the whole building and everything will be centrally located and modern.

—Nancy Walsh, sophomore, Frankfort, Illinois

The expansion of the library into the entire first floor of the Science Building will end the present crowded conditions, especially at exam time. The proposed changes in both the library and Halleck Center will create a more relaxed atmosphere for all students.

—Dan Mangen, junior, Russia, Ohio

When we returned to campus last fall we found new showers in all the dorms. What a difference that made! The continued remodeling and renovation of the student dorms through the campus redevelopment plan is certainly important and students will see even more changes when school begins next September.
